

ESSAY ON POWER OF YOUTH

India possesses the world's highest youth population of over 800 million. Youth is the golden time for every individual, it's a time of passion, it's the time of energy and it's the time full of life changing opportunities. In this golden time, we don't just hold the energy, we also hold the power to transform all our dreams into reality. The ones who realize this have created history at a very young powerful spirits out there who desire to create a life they have also envisioned. This article contains an inspiring essay on the power of youth.

The major challenge a young adult or a person of any age group in many read is to escape their comfort zone. It is not enough to have the potential until and unless we set our intention towards a goal and work towards it. It is easy to fall into trap of addictions and procrastination at this time period. Channeling time and energy in unproductive activities is also a major issue at this age. It is necessary to create a progressive mindset at an early stage and surround yourself with positive and passionate People. Sometimes, young people find themselves in a situation that involves peer pressure, it is necessary to create healthy boundaries in such circumstances.

Sometimes there is this weird urgency in people to settle down so that they can start enjoying life. They look out for a stereotypical job and work tirelessly for something that doesn't even give them fulfillment. How can an individual bring out their true potential in a setting like that?. Youth is only time when taking calculated risks doesn't create severe consequences. So it is important to realize the value of this time period and make necessary efforts.

The youth have the power to turn a non-tangible idea into a world class work of art, to transform the minds of the world by the power of their words, to create a business that creates sensation all around the world, to turn the course of science., there are countless possibilities that can arise from a young mind. And this is the very reason, the young people are eyed as the future stars of our nation Because when they realize their true potential and put in the right efforts there is simply nothing that is impossible.
